The 2021-22 academic year was a productive one for the Center for Teaching and Learning, as we continued to support student learning from both sides of the classroom: through direct support to students (undergraduate and graduate) and through programs to support instructors' teaching. We continued to offer face-to-face and remote tutoring, seeing a total of 4,510 undergraduates and 647 graduate student users. We also supported instructors in 1442 online courses and conducted 84 online course reviews. In Spring 2022, CTL helped host a two-day teaching conference that drew over 280 instructors. During this year CTL rebranded itself as one comprehensive center and created a more user-friendly website. We moved Teaching Support and Digital Learning under one Director and hired two Assistant Directors of Teaching Support. Aeron Haynie, Executive Director of CTL
